How should he cuddle with him now? Pollo is also terribly sad and feels ugly and useless. Dejected, he moves to a corner, nobody should see the thick bear tears that are rolling down on his fur. Suddenly, the teddy bear commando, a wild group of discarded and special toy figures, appears.

SMALL HEROES, BIG ADVENTURES

Die Eisenbahntrasse führt am linken Bettbein vorbei. Sie windet sich über die Teppichkante und läuft über eine Hochgeschwindigkeitsstrecke auf den Schrank zu.
Bevor Ben mit seinem Freund Jakob die Eisenbahn aufgebaut hat, haben sie Rebekka zu Carla gebracht. Rebekka ist die kleine Schwester von Jakob. Carla ist die kleine Schwester von Ben. Ben und Carla wohnen ganz in der Nähe von Rebekka und Jakob. Die Kinder sehen sich fast jeden Tag. Ben und Jakob sind in derselben Klasse, Carla und Rebekka gehen zusammen in den Kindergarten.

Jetzt ist Rebekka schon seit drei Stunden weg. In diesen drei Stunden haben zwei Räuber den Zugführer von Bens neuer Lokomotive als Geisel genommen. Einen der Räuber konnten Jakob und Ben schon gefangen nehmen. Jetzt ist der andere dran. Aber gerade als sich ein Polizeitrupp an den entführten Zug heranschleicht, fliegt die Zimmertür auf, und der Vater von Jakob steht mitten auf dem Parkplatz vor dem Bahnhof, wo die Polizeiautos parken, und sagt: „Ben, es ist schon zehn nach sechs. Du musst nach Hause zum Abendessen."
„Och, jeden Abend dasselbe! Gerade wenn es am spannendsten ist, müssen wir aufhören", mault Jakob.
„Ja, und du musst auch noch deine Schwester abholen", setzt sein Vater unnachgiebig hinzu.
„Die will bestimmt auch lieber bei Carla bleiben und mit den Pferden spielen", wirft Ben ein.
„Genau, und wir können doch den Zugführer nicht einfach mit dem Räuber allein lassen!", beschwert sich Jakob.

PAPANINI

Kühltruhe, von der aus eine Rutsche ins Wasser führte. Plötzlich öffnete sich ein Türchen in der Truhe und über die Rutsche platschte ein schwerer Eiswürfel ins Becken. Piff und Paff schossen auf den Würfel zu, um ihn dann wie einen Ball vor sich her zu bugsieren.

Am Beckenrand kniete ein mageres Mädchen, das etwa so alt wie Emma war. Es hatte rabenschwarze Zöpfe und trug ein senfgelbes Kleid mit roten Blumen. Es lachte, während es Papanini Fischbrocken zuwarf. Der Pinguin fing sie geschickt auf und gurrte mit vollem Mund „Lala-lila".

„Papanini!", rief Emma.

Das Mädchen sah überrascht auf und sagte etwas auf Englisch, das wie „Eintritt verboten" klang.

20

Papanini schoss auf Emma zu.

„Emma-Emma", schnatterte er aufgeregt. Überglücklich hob Emma ihn hoch und drückte ihn fest an sich. Er roch sehr nach Fisch, aber das störte sie nicht.

„Endlich! Ich hab dich so vermisst!"

Das fremde Mädchen stand reglos da und beobachtete die beiden. Ihr Gesichtsausdruck war schwer zu lesen.

In diesem Moment öffnete sich eine weitere Tür und der Professor trat ein. Als er Emma erblickte, eilte er mit großen Schritten ums Becken und schloss sie in seine Arme.

„Willkommen! Willkommen! Wie schön, dass du da bist!", rief er.

Er trug Shorts und T-Shirt, was Emma etwas gewöhnungsbedürftig fand, denn sie hatte ihn bisher nur in Hemd und Anzug gesehen, was ihm in ihren Augen viel besser stand. Piff und Paff waren an den Beckenrand geschwommen und auch sie schnatterten Emma aufgeregt zu. Alle freuten sich.

7 DAYS WITHOUT PARENTS

Dagobert Duck im Comic. »Wenn sie nämlich bei mir schläft, können wir ihr Zimmer auch vermieten.« Mein Zimmer? Das gefiel mir nicht.

»Aber da sind alle meine Sachen drin!«, protestierte ich.

»Na und?«, sagte Mira. »Dann hol halt vorher raus, was du unbedingt brauchst. Je mehr Zimmer wir vermieten, desto mehr Geld kommt rein.«

»Und warum vermieten wir dann nicht dein Zimmer?«, sagte ich. »Das ist sowieso größer!«

»Genau!«, sagte Tom. »Dann können wir dort auch gleich zwei Leute reinlassen. Weil da ja die Couch steht.«

Mira sah uns an, als hätten wir den Verstand verloren.

»Und wo soll ICH dann schlafen?«, raunzte sie. »Mit Charlie zusammen in ihrem schmalen Bett, oder was?«

»Auf der Luftmatratze«, sagte ich. »In meinem Zimmer! Da schlafen meine Freundinnen auch immer!«

»Na toll«, sagte Mira missmutig. »Dann können ja auch die Gäste auf deiner Luftmatratze schlafen!«

»Dafür können wir denen aber nicht so viel Geld abknöpfen wie für die bequeme Couch!«, sagte Tom, und schon waren meine Geschwister wieder am Streiten.

Das fing ja gut an!

»Jetzt hört doch auf zu streiten!«, rief ich. »So kommen wir nie weiter! Und wir wollen doch Geld verdienen, oder nicht?«

Das wirkte. Wir überlegten noch eine Weile und einigten uns schließlich darauf, erst mal alle Schlafmöglichkeiten aufzulisten und später auszumachen, wer wo schlafen sollte.

Ich zeichnete den Grundriss unseres Hauses auf mit Keller, Erdgeschoss und Obergeschoss. In die Räume, die wir vermieten konnten, schrieb ich die Abkürzungen und malte die Schlafgelegenheiten dazu.

Mamas und Papas Zimmer – ein Doppelbett
mein Zimmer – ein Bett
Miras Zimmer – ein Bett und ein Bettsofa
Toms Zimmer – ein Bett
Wohnzimmer – zwei Sofas
eine Luftmatratze, die überall liegen kann

»Macht neun Schlafmöglichkeiten, drei davon brauchen wir«, zählte Tom richtig zusammen. »Also können wir

Aufregung gab's schon am nächsten Tag – wenn auch anders, als Felix es sich gewünscht hätte.
Auf dem Weg zur Schule sprach er wie an jedem Morgen kaum ein Wort. Anders als Livi, die die ganze Zeit plapperte und über alle möglichen Dinge redete. Noch schlimmer wurde es, als Cleo dazukam, die mit ihnen in dieselbe Klasse ging. Die beiden Mädchen hörten gar nicht mehr zu reden auf. Felix, der das ziemlich langweilig fand, dachte lieber daran, wie er am Nachmittag seine Rakete reparieren und zusammen mit Mister Robin einen zweiten Startversuch wagen wollte. Aber plötzlich sagte Cleo etwas, das ihn die Ohren spitzen ließ.

GANZ LEIN

Nach nur zwei Tagen und acht Stunden konnte das Grompel sich flüssig unterhalten, auch wenn ihm ab und zu noch Fehler unterliefen.

Es schlief auf einem Sofakissen in Papas Lieblingssessel. Glücklicherweise ernährte es sich nicht nur von Mohnkuchen. Es mochte auch Nutellabrot, Geranien, Computermäuse, Äpfel, Karotten, Lederschuhe und ungekochte Nudeln. Und besonders gern fraß es Schnürsenkel, als wären es Spaghetti.

Es probierte einfach alles, und wenn ihm etwas nicht schmeckte, gab es einen verärgerten, angewiderten Laut von sich, der so ähnlich wie »wäääärgh« klang.

Schmeckte ihm etwas ausgesprochen gut, sagte es gar nichts, sondern hüpfte von einem Hinterbein aufs andere, seine Ohren zuckten dabei wild und seine Augen leuchteten grün wie ein Fußballrasen.

»Ein Tanz-Schiefzahn-Echobiberleuchtbirf«, stellte Matti glücklich fest.

Papa sagte nichts mehr dazu. Er hatte längst in allen Fachbüchern nachgeschlagen, die ihm eingefallen waren. Über dieses Tier war nirgendwo etwas zu finden. Nun galt es abzuwarten, bis das Grompel noch besser sprechen gelernt hatte und berichten konnte, wer und was es war und wo es herkam. Da es sehr schnell lernte, konnte das nicht mehr lange dauern.

Bis jetzt hatten Papas Fragen allerdings nichts Neues ergeben. Meistens sagte das Grompel einfach nur: »Eßnich.« Es war eindeutig seine Lieblingsantwort.

»Es ist nur zu faul zum Nachdenken«, schimpfte Papa.

Gerade hatte das Grompel festgestellt, dass Lakritzschnecken »wäääärrrgh« waren, als es an der Tür klingelte. Die Trappitschs fuhren zusammen.

»Das ist vielleicht Jon«, sagte Milla.

Jon war der Einzige aus Millas Klasse, der sie manchmal besuchen kam. Er fuhr gerne Fahrrad und der Weg vom Dorf hinaus zum Forsthaus war gar nicht so weit.

»Er wollte mit mir Molche fangen. Ich lenke ihn ab.« Milla stopfte sich schnell noch eine Lakritzschnecke in den Mund.

Matti rannte zum Fenster und entdeckte das kleine Elektroauto von Frau Dr. Hölderlein-Brummer in der Einfahrt.

- Chaotic everyday family life - through the eyes of a dog

Finally – a real family! When Mister Dog moves in with Kai, Sarah and their three children, life gets exciting for the affectionate, playful pooch. With his new owners he strolls through the neighbourhood; discovering nearby playgrounds and meeting Kimba the Labrador. Mister Dog's new life as a family dog would be perfect, if only he didn't have to share his new family with another pet – a pesky parrot. The parrot is bad news and immediately takes against Mister Dog. The fact that Mister Dog seems to inadvertently create chaos doesn't help at all. Will he be allowed to keep his new family or will he have to move out again?
